

GRANAT BROS. WIN TITLE IN SEALS' LEAGUE

Gene Camozzi Works Two Games and Outpitches Ren Kelly and Dutch Rock

WINNERS TO GET $1000

New Champions Will Begin Series of Three Games Sunday With Oakland Stars

By ED R. HUGHES

NO MORE IT has been demonstrated that dope is no good in baseball. Granat Brothers' team won the championship of the Seals' Winter League yesterday at Recreation park by winning both games from the Mayrose Butters team. The scores were 9-7 and 3-2, and both games were fought to a hard-boiled finish before a crowd of 10,000, who enjoyed the fine summer weather and the scrappy article of ball put on for them.

The Mayrose boys were so sure they could beat the Granats that they all but tossed a game their way a few weeks ago in order to get at them in the finals, and then the Granats turned around and made short work of the Mayrose boys by winding up the series in one day.

Gene Camozzi Proves the Bright Star in Finals

And it was Gene Camozzi who proved the shining star yesterday. Ren Kelly, the pitching ace of the Mayrose team, proved to be a two-spot, and he was beaten 9-7 in the first game. The Granat boys felt so certain that Kelly would beat them that they did not start Camozzi, but after they scored four runs in the first inning they realized that Kelly was just a kid like themselves, so they lost their fear of him.

Farber started for the Granats, but he was wild, and Ludolph relieved him in the first inning. Both umpires missed a play at third base in that round, and after the side should have been retired, Mayrose scored three times and tied the score. Then Camozzi went on the job in the second inning and outpitched Kelly, and he came right back in the second game and outpitched Dutch Rock and won the championship for his club.

Second Game Had Many Touches of League Class

The second game was the better contest of the two, and it had many touches of real league class. Both sides played swell ball on the defensive and it was a battle royal until Casey ended the game with a swift peg to second base that nipped Rock trying to steal. If anyone can be blamed for the loss of the game the buck must be passed to Chicken Hawks, who took a little cut nap in the sixth and let two runs score on a pop fly over the infield. Swan hit the ball with runners on third and second, Hawks could not reach it, but after he did get hold of the ball he held it in his hand and let Fonseca score from second base. That run proved to be the winning one.

Camozzi Is Winner Over Cleaner Nine

GENE CAMOZZI and La Cousta, hurlers for the Seals and Liberty Cleaners, City League teams, hooked up in a pretty pitcher's battle in their tussle at Recreation Park yesterday and Gene emerged a winner in the twelfth frame when Manager Sears came trotting over the pan on a lusty clout to center field by Johnston.

It was a nip and tuck scrap, with just enough hitting to make it interesting in every stanza while some flashy fielding stunts featured every inning. The Seals came through with a counter to Vargas, a wild heave to catch him at second by Johnson and a Camozzi single turning the trick.

With the score at 1 all the boys settled down to some pretty play that had the fans on their feet. The Seals came through with the needed run in the eleventh. LaCousta, who had been working a nice game up to this point, started to feel the strain of the battle and Sears led off with a nice hit to open the frame. Two outs then followed and then the Liberty hurler walked the next two, filling the bags. Johnston then stepped to the plate and brought his manager over with the run that settled the matter for good and all. The outfielders had a busy day of it, accepting no less than 14 chances, some of them being related to the circus variety. The City Leaguers will stage two more games at Recreation Park today. The morning game to start at 10:30 and the afternoon engagement at 2:45.

SAN MATEO BEATS PACIFICS, 1 TO 0

Camozzi Pitches 7-Hit Game, Bats In Run to Win for Self; Fifth Inning Rally Decides AUGUST 3, 1931

SAN MATEO, Aug. 3.—Gene Camozzi pitched a seven-hit game and batted in a run to give San Mateo a 1 to 0 shutout over Pacific Commonwealths here today. A three-hit rally in the fifth inning did the work. Score:

GENE CAMOZZI MAY GET CHORE OF EXTRACTING STING FROM S. J. BEES

By TAY PAY MAGILLIGAN
With the business of inviting celebrities and making arrangements for their comfort concluded, Directors Dave McCullough and Chester Newbert of the San Mateo Blues baseball club sat down with Manager Justin Fitzgerald at an informal meeting at the Hotel St. Matthew last night and devoted themselves to the strategy with which they intend to beat the San Jose Bees in the second, and probably the deciding game, of the title play off series at city park tomorrow afternoon.

CASEY'S SINGLE GIVES LOCAL CLUB VICTORY

Tom Drives Home Two Runs In Eighth, Beating Three I Champs, 2-1.

By Ralph H. White.
With runners on second and third in the eighth, Tom Casey busted a single through the Bloomer infield in yesterday's opener with the Three-I champions and gave the locals victory, 2 to 1.

Until the next to last stanza, Our Boys had failed to get a safety off Main, but they bunched three in that season for the verdict. Joe Meyer started it with a rap to Lenahan that was too hot to handle. Kreimeyer sacrificed to Sykes and was safe when that worthy cuffed the agate around for a second or two. Acting Manager O'Berta advanced his co-workers with a pretty sacrifice and Casey did the rest, slapping a single to right on which his two pals rode home.

Casey's clout, by the by, stamped Camozzi the winning pitcher. He deserved to win although Main twirled a whale of a game. An error robbed our new savior of a shutout, but he isn't the least bit peeved for his mates banged across just enough tails to win. In fact, the champs got eight hits off the southpaw.

Summary—Stolen bases, O'Connell, three; base hit, Stobert; bases on balls, by Camozzi 1 by Lloyd 1; struck out, by Camozzi 9 by Lloyd 1.

Last Sunday Camozzi extracted the sting from all the San Jose Bees by using a jug-handle curve that Tom Casey taught him years ago, and a floater mixed with blazing speed that completely baffled the San Jose boys. And Gene did all this right down on the Bees' home ash-heap, which they call Sociality Park.

Three Pitchers Ready
It may be that Fitzgerald will give all three of his hurlers a chance to work in tomorrow's game. The "Little Harp" wants to spread the honor of beating the Bees among all his players, but above all he wants his team to have "the honor" of beating the Invaders.

Fitzgerald also had not decided definitely on the make-up of his outfield. His system has been to alternate his outfield having them play in rotation, and the chances are that he will follow this plan of campaign tomorrow.

Ereno Confident
Orlando Garibaldi Mussolini Carrera Ereno, manager of the San Jose Bees, telephoned late today that he would start "Tiny" Alviso against the Blues tomorrow. "He's got more smoke than the United Cigar stores, and he'll stop the San Mateo boys tomorrow," was a little aside that "de Preme" Ereno shot over the telephone wire at Fitzgerald.

"Oh, year, him and who else?" fired back the fighting manager of San Mateo's Blues.

Bill Prout will shine again tomorrow at first base, Benjamin will do his chore at second, and if Montague performs as well tomorrow as he did last Sunday at short stop, they're going to award him a medal for his work in the play-off series.

Jackie Keane, the bombarding infielder, will be seen at his regular place at third base and his mighty maul may settle the bout
