ABERDEEN'S CATCHER USES HEAD WHILE HE BATS AND WINS GAME

Roland Stops One of Frank Rapp's Slow Curves, and With Bases Full, Forces in Winning Run in the Tenth Inning; Portland Uses Morton, Clow and Rapp in Effort to Beat Cats.

BY R. A. CRONIN

IT IS A good thing to have a head if you are a ball player. You can stick it around any old place in a pinch. Some heads are used for thinking, some to lay on pillows and some to punch with the fist. Some even are used as tobacco jars by medical students, so it is said. But it is a good thing for a ball player to have a head—and the harder the better.

Catcher Roland of the Aberdeen club has such a head. He can do 'most anything with it, such as using it as a cache for ham and eggs or for stopping baseballs. Whether he thinks with it, Dick Egan alone knows. No reference will be made to young Mr. Roland's dome, after stating that it served its purpose in the tenth inning with the bases full and one out. Not even a bump of recognition was raised when Ro stuck it into one of Frank Rapp's slow curves and Zinkie was forced in with the winning run of a 3 to 2 contest.

Portland Uses Three Pitchers

Portland used Morton, Clow and Rapp in an effort to beat the Cats in two hours and 25 minutes, but failed. It was nearly 7 when the game ended, a delay being experienced by the failure of Aberdeen's uniforms to arrive until 3:30 p. m. A monsieur named Camozzi, whose forbears hail from Napoleon's old stamping ground at Corsica, pitched from the left side for Aberdeen and got away nicely until the ninth. Morton fanned four and walked five before he was succeeded by Clow.

"Cupie got along nicely until the sixth, when two went across on Zinkie's single, Cartwright's first of three sacrifices, Mino's single to left, Altschul's double to right and Roland's single to right.

Sully's Tally Ties Score

Three hits had been made off Cammozi up to the ninth, when Fisher got a walk with one gone. Sullivan hit a short, bounding double to right field for two bags, and Lee followed with a long fly to left that allowed Fisher to come in. Pembroke beat a hit to Egan by some exertion, and when Hester allowed Egan's throw to get away from him, Sully was home with the tying count. Kibble singled to center, but Peterson had no base hits in his repertoire.

Egan opened the tenth with a single to left and Clow walked Zinkie, which also caused "Cupie" to walk the plank. Rapp came on and when Cartwright bunted, fielded the ball to third too late to get Egan. Mino was dinked on strikes. Altschul forced Egan at the plate, Rapp to Pembroke, and just when things looked good, Rapp eased a slow curve up to Roland and—well, we said we wouldn't say any more about Roland's head.

VERDIS PLAY SAN MATEO IN STATE LEAGUE FEATURE

Conquerors of San Jose Bees Hope to Make It Two Straight Against Blues—Jack Kavanaugh Will Oppose Veteran Gene Camozzi

BY MAX KOFSKEY

THE Verdi Club of San Francisco, buoyed by confidence because of its surprise victory over the San Jose Bees last Sunday, hopes to make it two straight victories in the feature contest next Sunday on the San Mateo diamond. Joe Gaggero's athletes battle the Blues of San Mateo, another pennant contender.

The San Jose pastimers, boasting of a perfect record until they went up against the Verdis, were outplayed in all departments by the local aggregation. So impressive were the Verdis that Gaggero thinks they finally have hit a winning stride and will get into the championship scramble.

The acquisition of George Haller, who tried out with the Missions this spring, has bolstered the San Francisco team. The hard-hitting flychaser rapped "Spec" Shea for a home run last Sunday.

• • •

KAVANAUGH, CAMOZZI HURL

Starting pitchers next Sunday will be Jack Kavanaugh for the Verdis and Gene Camozzi for the San Mateo club. Kavanaugh worked the first four innings against San Jose and displayed some of the stuff that made him a star in the San Francisco Winter League a few years ago. This will be Camozzi's first game in two weeks. Carl Holling pitched for the Blues last Sunday.

The Oakland Eagles battle the San Jose combination next Sunday at the "Garden City," and hope to hand the Bees another lacing. But they'll have to do better than they did last Sunday, when the Palo Alto aggregation defeated them, 8 to 6. Pudgy Gould will fling for the Oaklanders and Shea for the Bees.

The other state loop contest next Sunday will bring together the Palo Alto and Santa Cruz teams at the "Resort City." "Lefty" Wright will pitch for Palo Alto and Chris Barnes for Santa Cruz.

SEALS 3; SAN MATEO 2

The San Francisco Seals, led by the Great Walter Mails, journeyed down to San Mateo last Sunday and, before a crowd of approximately 4000 people, defeated the Blues by the score of 3 to 2, and if it had not been for the lack of a hit in the eighth when three times the bases were crowded, the San Mateo Blues would have won their twenty-sixth straight game.

Camozzi was in great form, fanning nine of the Seals and allowing but three hits, two in the fourth and one in the fifth inning, while the Blues gathered five hits off Kunz and three from Mails, who pitched the last four innings. Camozzi had the fence-busters guessing all the way, as there was only one hit for extra bases during the entire matinee. Summary:
