

Gene Camozzi Pitches No-Hit, No-Run

Not a Man Reaches First On Well Known Hurler in Contest Against Cleaners

Concord Is Leading the Three-C League, With Crockett and Brentwood Tied for Second Honors in the Race

GENE CAMOZZI, well-known semi-pro hurler, this year with the San Mateo baseball team, achieved that dream of all pitchers on Sunday, when he pitched a NO-HIT, NO-RUN game against the Liberty Cleaners, a semi-pro baseball outfit of this city. What is more to the point, NOT A PLAYER OF THE LIBERTY CLEANERS REACHED FIRST BASE.

That's something that counts, whether it be in semi-pro baseball or in the professional ranks. Camozzi has been hurling in these parts for quite a time now, but he was never in better form than on Sunday. The Cleaners were cleaned in the orthodox one-two-three fashion and the game took just 1 hour and 20 minutes.

It may also be of note that San Mateo won the battle by a 4-to-0 score, with Camozzi getting one of the hits and one of the runs.

Camozzi and his battery mate, Silva, are shortly to leave for a lumber community in Oregon, where they are hopeful of more successes of this sort. Score:
